

Yes school all year round has many good points for example many more breaks for all types of weather not just one large break in the summer, You can enjoy a break in the winter, fall, and spring. I have heard that we would go for nine weeks then vacation for 3 weeks, I believe this would be very suitable for anyone, we would just need a little adjustment. Also we would get out of school and graduate much earlier than before. And it would be a benefit to ~~us~~ staying in touch with friends. Furthermore it would benefit education as a whole, not having time to forget as much and lessen review time in half and more people educated would also help the economy in the future as we graduate. This is why I think year around school is beneficiary.
